

I am a XM user. In fact we have there XM subscriptions in our household. For me XM is the best thing that has happened to radio. Although we have many stations to listen to locally in Los Angeles, we have few real choices. We have two classical stations, one which constantly asks for money overtly, and one which constantly advertises. We have one real jazz station and one light jazz. Then we have a whole bunch of bland stuff.

On XM I can listen to whatever music I might wish to listen to. And I know that I will receive it immediately--no talk, and no ads. When I need to find out what the traffic is like, unlike local radio--I can immediately find out the comprehensive report of traffic. I don't have to wait six to ten minutes until the station puts it on--by which time it is too late. It is on immediately. Please do not allow a special interest (NAB) to destroy this situation.
